

Welcome to Reliable Embedded Systems!

Our mission is to build world class world wide win/win cooperations by helping you to create better embedded software.

Introduction Drawing from our experience in cooperating with various companies and individuals, many of whom became friends over the years, we can help you jump start your embedded projects and show you the path to creating a productive and innovative working environment. If this looks interesting for you have a look at Our services

- Consulting/Coaching
- Embedded Systems Training

- Time Management Training

- Engineering Attractive both for newcomers who want to learn about embedded software and for experts, who want a second opinion about the way they currently develop stuff. Remember that doing the same things the same way over and over again will not produce different results. Conclusion We are not after quick fix solutions but long term relationships with our customers.
